High School Transition Night: December 4, 2017 (in the evening) at each high school

- High school staff will make presentations to parents and students at each campus and will be available to answer questions about the transition to high school. Special emphasis will be on core academic classes (English, Math, Social Studies, and Science), elective opportunities, and overall high school life.
- Students will learn about school sports and clubs at the AAA Fair (Athletics, Academics, and Activities).
- Students will learn about summer school options for incoming freshmen.
- 8th grade students and their parents from D300 public schools, the charter school, and local parochial schools are encouraged to go to the Transition Night at the high school they'll attend in the fall.
- Visit www.d300.org/freshmen for more information, including the times for each building.

Teacher recommendation process for core classes: December 4 through December 15, 2017

- Middle school teachers will recommend core freshman classes in the areas of English, math, science, and social studies. Teachers use multiple criteria to make their recommendations, including test scores, current grades and classes, individual work ethic, motivation, and reading and writing ability.
